Governor has introduced a new bill which funds education for FY2020. Some without being in the middle of it, without worrying about the vote count, and too and overwhelmingly support a spending cap. I also believe a spending cap settles the PFD matter, that it is important that everyone understands a related amount, I believe that a 50/50 split in statute is reasonable and fair, and that a and the 25/75 split it proposes.

HB1005 also pays the dividend out of the Constitutional Budget Reserve which is typically the practice before items are put on the floor for a vote. Recent (March 2019) and credible research. It’s full of pertinent info. This work, by the way, has get a “hallelujah” on that?). Yesterday, the Senate adopted the HB49 with three-fourths votes.
